Cruise Planners plans memorable vacations with land-based properties, tickets to events worldwide, and all-inclusive packages in addition to cruises. Below are tips for families when booking all-inclusive vacations, escorted tours and other land trips.

Families are especially seeing the value in all-inclusive hotel vacations. At all-inclusive properties, travelers pay one price and don't have to worry about a large bill at the end of the trip; instead it's all paid up front, so there are no hidden costs.

Using a travel agent to book your all-inclusive resort vacation is like using a travel matchmaker. Agents are experts at finding the perfect destination to meet travelers' needs and can customize the perfect trip for everyone.

In today's fast-paced world, families spend a lot of time apart in their daily routine, so it's important to spend time together and create new memories on vacations while still having entertainment options for everyone. Below is a list of land-based travel options from Cruise Planners, a network of travel agents helping travelers plan more than just cruises.

Escorted Tours

Escorted tours include food, admission to parks/museum and all accommodations. Travelers can skip long lines, see more of the country side, towns and villages. Also, to experience the authentic local culture, travelers can interact with locals by visiting them in their daily routine or even their homes.

Plentiful Restaurant Options

Food in regions such as the Caribbean can get expensive, but when resorts are able to bundle it all together, it's more reasonable for consumers. Cruise Planners suggests that travelers consider the number of restaurants available and find food that the whole family will enjoy. Some all-inclusive resorts offer gourmet steak houses, Asian grills, Italian cuisine, 24-hour pizza bars and more. When traveling abroad, travelers may also want to experience the local fare native to the region.

Deals for Kids

Many resorts are offering kids-stay-free promotions and other incentives for travelers. It's important to work with a travel agent to match up the best promotions for families. Parents should look for properties that have strong children's programs, multi-generational activities to keep everyone entertained and a variety of restaurants with different food and drink options.

Celebration Travel

Some milestones in life are truly special and deserve that extra "something" to celebrate with the ones you love. Planning these occasions should be fun as well as effortless. With Destination Weddings & Events by Cruise Planners, you can hand over the reins to one of our professional event managers so you can sit back, relax and simply enjoy every moment.
